

Press release

Industry Peers Tap Local Designer as Competition Judge – Grace Bradley from Carmel’s The KitchenWright

(Carmel, IN) Due to her 14 years of kitchen design experience, awards and talent, The KitchenWright designer Grace Bradley, recently judged the National Kitchen & Bath Association – Indiana Chapter’s 2009 Student Design Competition.

“When your industry peers call on you to judge a design competition, it certainly is an honor,” notes Bradley. “Judging a student contest is always fun to do. They come into it with no preconceived notions and their creativity is refreshing!”

In the design competition, students developed a kitchen design for a hypothetical couple and their needs. Judging was based on creativity, overall layout, drafting, mechanical plan, and achievement of design criteria and codes. Stephanie Richard of IUPUI was the overall winner. “Stephanie’s layout was especially creative while meeting the competition’s design criteria,” according to Bradley.

The KitchenWright, a kitchen and bath design firm located in Carmel, IN, is also an award winning company, recently honored by Wood-Mode Fine Custom Cabinetry. The KitchenWright was the highest ranked company in Indiana, and one of only 65 design firms out of hundreds nationwide – to receive Wood-Mode’s Silver Star for performance.

For more information on The KitchenWright, visit their new kitchen and bath design showroom at 912 South Rangeline Road, Suite 100 in Carmel, IN. The KitchenWright can also be reached at 317-848-1111 or on the web at www.TheKitchenWright.com.